Rescue Foundation's daughters are loving sisters of the staff members.

Any Indian festival seems to be incomplete without the traditional Indian festivities, such as gathering, celebrations, exchange of sweets and gifts, lots of noise, singing and dancing. Festivals are the celebration of togetherness as being as a united family and the festival "Raksha Bandhan" is not an exception of this.

The love and self actuation towards a novel cause between a brother and his sister is the theme of this great festivals, As far as the traditions and rituals are concerned, sisters prepare the "pooja thali" with diyas, roli, chawal and rakhis. They worship the goddesses, tie rakhis on the wrists of their brother(s), and wish for their well being. On the other hand, the brothers acknowledge their love with a promise that they will remain by their sisters' side and protect them from every fall and down throughout the life. Brothers also give token gifts to their sisters.

All the male staff members & Volunteers are adorned with Rakhi tied by all sisters.

Thus the love and affection between the staff and girls ensures that these girls also enjoy family life as well as the promise of protection by brother's increases their confidence and will power.

It ensures girls that they are not outcasts and not alone in this world. They also have affectionate brothers

Rakshabandhan is the festival of love, protection and devotion to a sister By tying a knot on wrist a brother promises his sister to protect her whole life.

This has been proved by our local MLA Shree Yogesh Sagar is celebrating Raksha bandhan with our Survivor girls at Rescue Foundation, which is highly appreciated.

Rescue Foundation would like to thank him for his initiation and for starting a new relation with us.
